

SPM Accreditation of Project Managers (APM) Scheme

Additional Information to queries ...

[updated 10 June 2017]

General

SPM membership and accreditation

Membership entry into SPM is different from accreditation. One must be a member of SPM before he/she can apply for accreditation.

Relevance of accreditation to main contractors/builders

Project management is essential in project delivery throughout the whole project life cycle, including the construction stage. In Contractor organization, there are project managers managing the process for construction, covering planning, scheduling, budgeting, resource management, procurement, safety and other risk management, etc.

Support from government agencies

Many government agencies in the built environment sectors have given the APM scheme strong support. Please refer to our website.

Further specialization in PPM certification.

There is no further specialization for the PPM certification.

Application & Assessment

In the APM Applicant Handbook, a 20-30 minute presentation to the APM Assessor Panel is required for PPM applications.

This is applicable to all applicants. It is a presentation, which can be in the form of MS Power Point slides, a common platform for project presentation by PM. It is a verbal presentation done as part of the interview process. It is an essential interactive process for the assessors to get to know the applicant better and understand his/her stated practice experience and background.
